Analysis & Insights Report – By Gotike

1.Best & worst ROI:

1. Best ROI – Email
    a. Email campaigns have €274.5K in revenue attributed in the Email table.
    b. The Sales Pipeline also shows about €77K in closed-won revenue from "Email Campaign" leads, confirming that email-sourced leads convert into real deals.
    c. With relatively low platform cost, this makes email the strongest ROI channel.
2. Worst ROI – Google Ads (and LinkedIn Ads close behind)
    a. Google Ads spend: €10,400 across the period, with €0 closed-won revenue in the Sales Pipeline (no Lead Source mapped to Google Ads), so ROI is effectively –100%.
    b. LinkedIn Ads spend: €14,643, but only a small portion of revenue (from "LinkedIn Outreach" deals) can be confidently tied to paid LinkedIn, giving a negative Ad ROI overall (–0.75).

"Email delivers the best ROI by far, generating ~€274K in attributed revenue and ~€77K in closed deals. Google Ads has the worst ROI in this period: €10.4K spent with no directly attributable closed revenue, while LinkedIn Ads also underperforms with negative ROI when we look only at clearly ad-driven deals."

2.Conversion Rates

3. Overall sales conversion rate (lead → closed deal)
    a. Total CRM leads: 65
    b. Closed-won deals: 11
    c. Overall lead → deal conversion rate: $11/65 \approx 16.9\%$

"Conversion from CRM lead to closed deal averages 17%, but quality varies sharply by source: Cold Outreach and Past Attendee leads convert at ~33%, LinkedIn Outreach at 29%, email at 18%, while pure website leads lag at just 5%. This suggests we should prioritise follow-up on outreach, past attendees and email-generated leads, and improve qualification on generic website inquiries."

3.Targets

4. Based on performance from October 2025 to January 2026:
    a. 20 delegates and 5 sponsors were closed over 4 months.
    b. This equals an average of 5 delegates per month and 1.25 sponsors per month.
5. If this pace continues through June:
    a. Delegates would reach approximately 40, versus a target of 300 (short by ~260).
    b. Sponsors would reach approximately 10, versus a target of 25 (short by ~15).
6. This means:
    a. Delegate sales must increase by ~7.5× the current monthly pace.
    b. Sponsor sales must increase by ~2.5× the current monthly pace.

"Even with 20 delegates and 5 sponsors closed so far, maintaining the current run rate only gets us to ~40 delegates and ~10 sponsors by June, versus targets of 300 and 25. We therefore need roughly 7–8× the current delegate pace and 2.5× the sponsor pace, which requires scaling high-quality lead sources (email, LinkedIn outreach, past attendees), reallocating budget away from low-ROI ads, and accelerating conversion on the existing pipeline."

4.Hidden Insight: A strong hidden insight here is about deal quality by lead source, not just volume.

a. Referral and Email leads quietly drive the biggest deals.
    - Average closed-won deal value:
        - Referral: ~€46.7K per deal (mainly a Sponsor – Gold).

- Email Campaign: ~€38.5K per deal (includes Sponsor – Platinum + high-value VIP).
- LinkedIn Outreach: ~€26.1K per deal.

b. This is not obvious if you only look at lead counts or basic conversion rates. Volume-wise, Website and LinkedIn Outreach produce more leads, but when you look at revenue per closed deal, Referral and Email are the quiet whales: fewer leads, but disproportionately higher ticket values.

Why this matters for strategy

- For sponsor and VIP revenue, it's more impactful to invest in referral mechanics and targeted email (partner intros, curated lists, past sponsors) than just chasing more raw website or ad leads.
- Even if they generate fewer leads, a single Referral or Email-sourced sponsor can equal many delegate deals in revenue, so these channels should get priority in sales attention and budget for the last 4 months.

"A key hidden insight is that Referral and Email leads generate the highest-value sponsor deals, with average deal sizes of ~€46.7K and ~€38.5K respectively. While Website and LinkedIn Outreach produce more leads, they do not produce the largest deals. This suggests that focusing on high-quality relationship-driven channels will have a greater impact on sponsor revenue than simply increasing overall lead volume."

5.Actionable Insights

1. Immediately reallocate underperforming paid acquisition budget toward high-converting, high-value channels.
    - Cut at least 50% of current Google Ads and LinkedIn Ads prospecting spend and redeploy that budget into:
        - Email campaigns to past attendees, existing sponsor lists, and high-value segments, and
        - LinkedIn Outreach sequences run by sales.
    - Reason: Ads spend of €25K has generated negative ad ROI (–0.75) with no closed revenue from Google Ads and limited, expensive wins from LinkedIn Ads, while email and outreach leads convert better and close larger deals.
2. Build a focused "high-value sources" playbook for sponsors.
    - Create a dedicated sponsor-hunting motion around Referral, Email Campaign, and LinkedIn Outreach leads, with:
        - Named owner per account,
        - Minimum 3 touchpoints per week (email, call, LinkedIn), and
        - A clear, time-bound sponsor offer (e.g., pricing lock-in until a specific date).
    - Reason: These sources show higher lead→deal conversion and the highest average deal values (Referrals ~€47K, Email ~€38K, LinkedIn Outreach ~€26K per closed deal), so focusing sales effort here drives the biggest revenue per conversation.
3. Install a fast-track pipeline program to shorten the sales cycle.
    - For all deals in Qualified / Proposal Sent / Negotiation, introduce:
        - A 48-hour decision incentive (e.g., upgrade, extra visibility, or small discount) and
        - A weekly pipeline review where any deal without activity in 7 days gets a specific next action or is closed.
    - Reason: With only 4 months left and a current run rate that would reach roughly 40 delegates and 10 sponsors vs targets of 300 and 25, the biggest lever is accelerating and converting the existing 40+ pipeline deals rather than relying only on new lead generation
